BERKMAN FREE DOES NOT REGRET ATTACK ON FRICK

Detectives Follow Anarchist from Jail to Shadow Him Constantly.

PITTSBURG, Pa., May 18.-Alexander PITTSBURG, Pa., May 18.—Alexander Berkman, who made an attempt on the life of Henry Clay Frick during the great steel strike at Homestead, Pa., in 1892, was released from prison to-day, having served thirteen years in the Western Penitentiary and one year in the Allegheny Workhouse. Berkman

Mrs. Annie Haines, of 1740 North Bower

street. Philadelphia, is grateful for relief Exhausted in Street.

A Madison avenue car ran into Hugh Gallagher's horse at One Hundred and Twenty-fifth street to-day. Then the borse ran into a Lenox avenue car ran over a policeman, ran a mile and Gallagher was driving the animal tached to an express wagon when the car, northbound ran into him. The collision threw Gallagher to the street and separated the front wheels from the wagon and the horse ran away with them.

At Lenox avenue he ran full till into a car, backed off and turned north. Policeman Pierson grabbed at his bit and hung on. The horse shook the policeman off at One Hundred and Twenty-sixth street and stepped on him. No other attempt was made to stop the animal until it dropped, unable to go further.

Dr. Dinnick, of Harlem Hospital, attended Gallagher and Pierson. The driver was not badly hurt, but Pierson was taken to the hospital.
